Reelection of A. Lamar Poole as head of the newly recreated detective department of the city of Atlanta Wednesday night gave credence to re ports that a complete shake-up of the police department is in the offing and that many officers are slated either for motion or retirement on pension. With abolition of the plainclother equad and recreation of the detective bureau, Chief of Police James L. Beavers and those closely identified with him, again occupied the spotlight of power in the department. Rumors that many changes are planned were persistent but members of the police committee, who unanimously renamed Poole, who was deposed as chief of the detective department when it was abolished in 1923, declined to affirm or deny them, saying in sub-stance that Chief Beavers is the czar of the police department. He is with full responsibility fo operation of the department, and the only thing the committee or Mayor I. N. Ragsdale's administration ex-pects is results.

"Saturnalia of federal law making began. Every legislature followed suit. When the first heat of the race was over and the legislative lords paused to take breath, the old maxim that people is governed best which is governed least' had been buried under a mass of statutes.

"Superimposed upon this mass of laws, appointive officers, boards, commissions and bureaus are authorized to make rules, the violation of which are visited by heavy penalties, and hence have the effect of statutes.

"To enforce these innumerable laws, regulations and rules, a horde of officials, tax gatherers, snoopers and spies swarm over the land like the lice of Egypt devouring the substance of the people; prying into their private affairs, regulating their trade and business and then poisoning their supply of alcohol.

"What wonder that the average man has come to regard the law as a sword of oppression rather than a shield of protection. Is not the crying need of the hour the disbandment of useless boards, the repeal of unnecessary laws, the return to the states of their natural and just authority to the end that we may bring the federal government back to its original simplicity?"

Senator Reed reiterated his hostility to the League of Nations and the world court, and declared that at the Washington arms conference the United States "surrendered the dominion of the seas then within our grasp."

Behind the resignation of Senor Pani is the struggle in which he maintained office against the wishes of the more radical members of the revulutionary party backing President Calles. From his years of struggle, it developed that Senor Pani was out of sympathy with almost every principle for which the Calles party struggle. sympathy with almost every principle for which the Calles party stands. When it was announced six months ago that Senor Pani had resigned. Wall street made representations to the Calles government on the advisability of keeping him in office.

The exit of Senor Pani marks the first real break in the Calles cabinet, which has been held together for more than two years, and it is predicted here that other breaks will follow as the elements composing the cabinet are said to be held together only by the strong personality of the president and his ability to handle the members.

man immediately, I approached a black shirt to ask him the direction. The fascist pulled a map out of his pocket and pointed the way. He then accompanied me to my destination, asking me questions.

"What did I think of Italy? Was at Yugodinia great man? Did neo-not Mussolini a great man? Did peo-ple in America not feel that he really acted in a characteristic, straight-forward American manner?" and a thousand other queries.

In the Background.

At the busy traffic crossings in talian cities the police are rein-orced by fascists the moment the rush becomes difficult to handle. Fascists becomes difficult to handle. Fascists guard bridges; they stand in front of government buildings; they watch the mails, museums and national monuments. But I hasten to add that after a few days in Italy you don't notice them any longer. Their methods of work are peculiar in this respect, that they are always keeping in the background, effacing themselves.

Of course, you see some young fellows whose brand new uniforms have gone a little to their heads. But that feeling I understand perfectly. I did some tall chest throwing and strutting

No man will contradict me when I say that by purposely standing in the way of such a power-conscious cop a man could count on gentle and persuasive speech, but may soon make the acquaintance of a stick. It's the same in Italy. It does not pay to obstruct anything in motion. You have the feeling that the fascist on the corner, and there is one on each corner, would come out of his dreamy immobility and show some remarkable alacrity.

when the train reached Fisa there was some consternation. The black shirt guards left the train and walked up to the locomotive. There was a good deal of gesticulation and talk. I asked the conductor what was the trouble and was told that we were three minutes behind schedule time.

Realization of a Dream — Vision of 1865 Becomes Reality in 1927

IT IS SAID that every large business is but the length-ened shadow of some one man,—who, in the early days of his career had visions extending far into the future,—and the ambition and courage to carry them out.

This story is of Lazarus Straus—the dauntless ancestor of decendants who inherited the principles of their sire and are bringing his dream to fulfillment in the State of his adoption.

Lazarus Straus was by birth a Bavarian, by adoption an American, by choice a Georgian,—a man whose high principles instilled in his sons won for them wealth and fame Arriving at Talbotton, Georgia, in 1848, he established himself in the graces of his fellow men as a person of highest integrity, and was welcomed by the citizens of Talbot County, where he became a merchant of prominence.

Rearing his sons, Isidor, Nathan and Oscar, in this little town, he early instilled in their minds the precepts which developed all three into international figures in the world of commerce, finance and diplomacy. Today the sons of these sons are the active heads of America's leading department store.

The dream of Lazarus Straus is being realized as the finishing touches are being applied to the most magnificent store building in the southeast, now being erected at Peachtree and Ellis Streets in Atlanta

The devotion of the Straus family to the home State of their grandfather, has brought them many times to Georgia, and has resulted in an affiliation with one of the most prominent department stores of the South.

R. H. Macy & Company, Inc., of New York, America's leading department store, has become associated with Davison - Paxon - Stokes Company, of Atlanta, in the erection of the impressive building at Peachtree and Ellis streets, rapidly nearing completion.

This is the culmination of allegiance to the high principles of merchandising which Lazarus Straus visualized in his dream during the early sixties at Talbotton, Georgia.

Within a short time the formal opening of this imposing structure will be announced.

At the conclusion of our war with Mexico back in the 40s, commissioners of both nations met in the City of Gaudalupe Hidalgo in Mexico to agree countries. They agreed upon the stipulations of a comprehensive treaty and started the document with the dedication "In the name of Almighty God!".

In the treaty, which is still sub-sisting between the two nations, is the following agreement, solemnly ratified:

ARTICLE XXI. "If unhappily any disagreement should hereafter arise between the governments of the two republics, whether with respect to the interpre-tation of any stipulation in this treaty, shall stater day upon the earth. Joh 19:25.

SHORT-SIGHTED VIEWPOINT.
The refusal of the senate Tuesday to reestablish diplomatic and commercial relations between the United States and Turkey is a serious blow to the economic interests of this country, and particularly to the south.

He has no delusions as to what that would mean to his people, to whose welfare and national advancement he is passionately devoted. and national advantage sionately devoted.

The Religious Raw-Head. The Religious Raw-Head.

The charge that has been set up in certain circles, and lately advanced in the senate chamber, that the Knights of Columbus, the strongest of Roman Catholic civic and benevolent organizations in America, is fomenting war between the United States and Mexico, for religious dominion and reprisals in the latter country, is absurd. In fact, it is on a par with the bogeyman of menacing "bolshevism" down there that is keeping Secretary Kellogg in a state of suspended sanity.

In the first place, this writer knows In the first place, this writer knows that the responsible leaders of the Knights of Columbus do not want war between the two countries and are opposed to any demonstrations that might produce one. They wish devoutedly that their coreligionists in Mexico may have those rights of freedom of conscience and freedom of worship which are among the recognized principles of the codes of Christian civilization in these modern tian civilization in these modern times. But all parties realize that it is not a function of the government of the United States to compel religious toleration by another and independent people. The best it could do in that respect is to incorporate a tolerance and protection principle in a treaty between our government and that of another nation. The hopes of the Knights of Columbus go no farther than to that orther streams. than to that extent.

The Record as to Religion.

The United States government has gone to that extent in many cases. In 1805 it made a treaty with the sultan of Tripoli in which it was stipulated "that the consul of the United States shall have liberty to exercise his religion in his own house and that his religion in his own house and that his servants shall not be impeded in going to his house at the hours of prayer." It is not unreasonable to suppose that vitamins may be volatile in character. If this assumption he correct then the If this assumption be correct, then the good effect of cod liver oil rubs for infants or children unable to take cod liver oil internally may be explained. The vitamin principle is volatilized by The vitamin principle is volatilized by the friction and warmth of the body and inhaled by the patient. In following this line of speculation we take off from the scientific facts that volatilization and inhalation of the medicament is the explanation of any systemic effects, any indication of absorption into the body, of such remedicas mercury, iodin, chloroform and camphor when these are applied to the skin in the form of salve or liniment. Likewise the best scientific evidence Likewise the best scientific evidence at present warrants the opinion that lead poisoning in various industries, in the same way, namely, by inhala-tion of fumes or of swallowing of lead in is too much to say that the skin is impervious to any external influence, for certain forms of radiant energy do penetrate the skin and act upon the deep or internal structures of the body. Radium, X-ray, ultraviolet rays, heat rays, all penetrate more or less. Heat penetrates the least of all of these. But we need to feel any or reserved. But we needn't feel much regret about that, for nowadays we have something which gives the effect of something which gives the effect of heat penetrating quite through the body, and this is the high frequency alternating electric current of relative-ly high voltage and low amperage, known as diathermy—which means literally heating through. With diliterally athermy the physician can raise the temperature, say, of an inflamed or infected joint lining or a nasal sinus lining many degrees above normal, a thing heretofore impossible of attain-ment. This is not heat penetrating but the special electric current penetrating and being converted into heat burning or discomfort experienced by the patient. But the effect of the deep periences from pain, lameness and stiffness.

Medical science has long recognized that in certain cases of infectious arut until diathermy was introduced be brought about. No amount of 'baking" or external application of heat apparently raised the internal tempera-ture of the joint. Diathermy is now deemed a specific treatment for Neis serian joint disease, and it is at least a great boon in the treatment of the more common forms of arthritis which masquerade as "rheumatism."

RESTLESS.

The other day the newspapers carried the story of a girl who is the daughter of a man prominent in official life. It said that she had gone into business. And the girl herself confessed that she did it because she was restless. She tired of dances, teas—and the thought of tying herself up in marriage.

She says that she is never going to get married—though, of course, she probably will, sooner or later, for she is a woman.

But the thing that this girl did was admirable. She was doing little good in the world by keeping herself in a restless state by devoting all her time to the things that solely gave her entertainment and personal pleasure.

If you have encugh worthwhile things to do—and do them—there won't be any room for that restless feeling.

This writer, for one, welcomes the entry of women into the same broad field of work that men have enjoyed for so long. We will have better companions, sweethearts, mothers, and a better breed of babies because of it all.

It will mean a better day for marriage, too. There will be fewer divorces, for women will marry for love ones, for women will marry for love ones, for women, all of us must learn to work through. To do other than this is neither afe nor decent.

Reading many books, we are told that the sun was rade to light man by day, the moon by night; the rose to please his sense of smell; the golden orange to delight his palate; the water brooks to quench his thirst: the bees to yield him honey; the mines gold and silver; the wheat bread; the pearl shell pretty buttons for his coat; the mulberry leaf silk, and the fallen tree in the forest is providentially man's own, to provide inim with fire against the winter's storms.

But has not the animal kingdom also a profound importance? Man shares this earth with forms of life that are limitless; forms whose ceaseless repetition reveal a continuity of existence down through the ages back into the twilight of time.

Gainesville, Fla., January 19.
(P)—Due to a "mixup in contract dates," the University of Florida hasketball team did not appear in Raleigh tonight to meet the North Carolina five, athletic officials here said late tonight.

The North Carolina game had been tentatively arranged for February 19, it was said, but in the signing of contracts January 19 had been inadvertently agreed to.

to.

The Florida squad was en route home tonight from a three-game trip in Georgia and Alabama.

Meanwhile Florida officials were making an effort to straighten out the tangle with the Carolina authorities.

GEORGIA FIVE LOSES, 27-33, TO TARHEELS

Chapel Hill, N. C.. January 19.—
The University of North Carolina, "southern champions," forged ahead of the Georgia basketeers in the second half of their game here tonight to win by the count of 83 to 27. The youngsters on the Tar Heel quint failed to steady down during the opening minutes of play and allowed the Bulldogs to take a commanding lead, which was cut to one point at half time.

The rangy lads from the south led by Drew and Turner, rung a pair of baskets in the first few minutes and had raised that to a 11-to-3 count before the Carolina coach sent a substitute to steady the White Phantoms. Price went to forward for Rufus Hackney and dribbled in to a ring a crip basket immediately. That score put the pep into the Tar Heels and they fought up hill to a 14 to 13 score at intermission.

fought up hill to a 14 to 13 score at intermission.

Morris tied the count with a foul goal one minute after the final half began, but Florence did the same for Georgia. Cathey put Carolina ahead for the first time a moment later with two free shots after a foul on Drew. Three beautiful goals from the floor by Price and Cathey counted a seven-point lead for the southern champions and they were never headed again.

Cathey, lanky Tar Heel center, tied with Drew, of Georgia, for scoring honors with 10 points. "Red" Price's work stood out for Carolina.

Stribling's Chances.

With the announcement that Jim Maloney and Jack Delaney, lightheavyweight champion, will meet under the auspices of Tex Rickard in the first of a number of "elimination bouts" pending a match with Gene Tunney, the status of Stribling in the matter gains in importance.

Today while seated at our desk in speculation over the matter our reverie was interrupted by Burt Miller, brother of the ambitious Walk, who is now managing "Young" Stribling, Walk had in tow the gentleman in whose hands the des-tiny of W. L. now lies—Dr. Carl Studer, from the Lone Star state, who is to train the elder of the Stribling boys for a crack at Gene some time in the indefinite future.

Now a short conversation with a trainer would hardly qualify us to predict the success or failure of that trainer in the handling of such a man as W. L. Stribling, but we do not he sitate to say that the doctor made a good impression in his first appearance.

He appears to be a man of keen insight and to know i than most persons about fighters and what they need to make them greater fighters. The most important thing we gleaned our conversation with Dr. Studer was the fact that he had his finger on the greatest weakness of W. L. and that he intended to devote all his efforts to remedying that defect.

"Strib has always been too cautious and he does not hit right," the opening words of Dr. Studer when the subject of Strib's chances at the heavyweight crown was brought up. "Young Stribling is one of the strongest men in the ring and should be one of the hardest hitters, but he is one of the lightest hitters in his weight," the doctor continued, and added: "Stribling does not seem to know how to hit except at close quarters, and it is my aim to teach him how to use his tremendous back muscles in a forward blow where his great strength will serve him well rather than to allow him to continue using a downthe clinches, whereas he could do fearful punishment in the close at Tech.

work if he were more willing to take a little punishment himself. At the present time Stribling's strength has resulted in a wrestling habit which takes much of the effectiveness from his in-fighting."

Thus did the Texas doctor outline the hopes of the Stribling family as they now repose in his care, and his final words may mean much to the fight game in the future as it concerns Stribling. He concluded: "In short, what I hope to do is to make as great a FIGHTER of Stribling as he is a boxer. If this can be done he will be the heavyweight

As was stated at the beginning of this column, it is too early by to make predictions, but if Dr. Studer is as capable as he appears be and carries out his plans as they are now laid, Georgia may yet have a heavyweight champion in the person of the man who went down to miserable defeat before the onslaught of Paul Berlenbach not

"Old Man Dope" has been busy figuring with his pencil and hands in a statement that runs something like this: Tech High was beaten by Lanier 10 points. Tech High defeated University by a large score and Boys' High defeated the Bluebirds by about the same margin. Therefore, with Lanier playing away from home this time, it seems as though Boys' High has a good chance

However, the old man overlooked one important item. The Macon Poets have practically the same team this year that won the G. I. A. A. It was the Macon last season. However, again, Boys' High has several veterans from the past campaign, and so it looks as though a merry battle will be waged when the two gather tomorrow night.

City League Ends 1st Round Tonight

Six teams will meet Thursday in three games that will finish the first round of play in the City Basketball league. Unless all the baseball experts are wrong, Landis will come out on top in the clash with Johnson. There are reasons to believe that the American league owners will go after Johnson and toss a majority of votes in favor of the commissioner. Those who have visited Lancashire, the great cotton center of England, will remember the gloom of the district. The climate, it is true, has something to do with the gloom, but the work of man has added to it a hundredfold. Smoke hangs everywhere like a pall, and mean little villages or murky towns give an atmosphere like a pall, and mean little villages or murky towns give an atmosphere that can hardly fail to depress the visitor. The people are cheerful enough, but that it even more depressing—for it means that these conditions are the sexing for their whole lives. Positive identification of the man been saved the usual attendant consequences to which I have referred. Cottages stood in their own little particles of ground, with here and there a cow and here and there some chickens. I learned that the workers are encouraged to keep cows, and actually given practical help in acquiring them, in order that their children may receive milk from unquestionable sources.

Then there were the greenhouses. I can imagine some of our singleminded captains of industry—and some of yours, too—asking in bewilderment what the devil greenhouses have to do with the manufacture of cotton goods. Luckily, the number of auch literally inclined and certainly short-sighted people is decreasing every year. Anything that improves the lot of the worker, away from the factory as well as while he is at his job, is of definite practical advantage, even from the purely selfish point of view. So, as I have said, there were the greenhouses—one for each of the factores. The Southern railroad, is in charge of a big crew of special investigation. W. S. Easy on the Eyes.

The effort to get away from the usual deadening effect of factory atmosphere is shown in the central office building and, wherever possible, in the factory buildings themselves. That is to say, instead of being a grim structure obviously dedicated to the god of Mammon, it resembles a pleasant country house. I gathered that no impairment of efficiency had resulted from such a striking defiance of custom. The factory buildings were well lighted and when the sun shines, as it was doing when I was there, men and women can see it.

The mills have their own publicity organization; I am not a recruit. But I gladly pay tribute to the spirit which seems to pervade the place; the desire to improve the lot of the worker; to attract the highest kind of labor to the district, and the realization, still not as common as it might be, that the employer's responsibility to those who serve him does not begin with the morning whistle and cease with the finish of the day's work.

Take Out Enough Life Insurance--Now

Have you enough money to live out your old age in comfort, and to leave your dependents protected thereafter? If not, you need Life Insurance for just these purposes.

No scheme of living is complete without provision for adequate protection of dependents, which is why today, the third day of National Thrift Week, is Life Insurance Day. If you have not provided sufficient insurance for your old age and for your dependents, delay no

Every day that passes increases the cost of insurance, and—more important—the possibility that you won't be able to pass the physical examination. And every passing day brings, of course, its own risks of sickness, injury and death.

Do not wait until you can insure your life for as large an amount as you would like; take out a policy now. Later on, you probably can obtain additional insurance as you become able to pay for it.

An alternative is Term Insurance. A larger amount of Term Insurance can be obtained for a given sum in premiums than of the more usual forms embodying savings features. Perhaps you can take out now enough Term Insurance to give your family proper protection, and later convert it into one of the more expensive forms. The difference in premiums will go to build up the cash value of the policy, and you will find it an easy way to save money.

Carry your full share of insurance, no matter what other sacrifices it may cost. It is your plain duty to yourself, your dependents, and

The history of many a life insurance policy-how it has saved the home from the mortgage, has enabled small-salaried men and women to start again after their property was lost or their business swept away through some unfortunate condition-all that insurance has done would read like great romance.

A life insurance policy has often made all the difference between home and no home, food and no food.

It has saved multitudes of men and women from the humiliation of utter failure, and spared many families the shame of being turned out of their homes.

Someone has said that it is not the high cost of living, but the cost of living high that cripples so many lives and compels so many of great ability to put up with the returns of mediocrity.

A little money placed in reserve from week to week is a great source of encouragement, a perpetual stimulus to ambition. ### Gigli's Concert Will Attract Music Lovers To Auditorium

The continued popularity of Beniamino Gigli, the sweet-voiced tenor of the Metropolitan Opera company, will be evidenced in the large audience assembling Thursday evening at the auditorium, when this artist will be presented under the auspices of the Atlanta Music

Study club, with Mrs. Clifford Hatcher as president. Music lovers of all classes and types will have an opportunity to hear the world's greatest tenor since Caruso, his rich and vibrant voice lending itself to every type of singing, his comprehensive concert including such numbers as the delightful aria, "M'Appari;" the brilliant aria, "O Paradiso," from Meyerbeer's "L'Africane;" Gregg's classic, "Un Reve," and "Torna Amore," by Buzzi-Peccia; Rachmaninoff's "In the Silence of the Night," a special composition; "Come Love With Me," by Vito Carnevali, Gigli's accompanist; one number from Bizet's "Carmen" and numbers by Gluck and Donaudy.

Many box parties will greet the famed Gigli Thursday evening.

Miss Elinor Whittemore, of Boston, Mass., will entertain Mrs. Samuel

M. Inman, Mrs. Helen Crew McCord, Sam Inman Cooper, and Joseph

Miss Idolene Lewman Reported Improving Following Car Crash

Miss Idolene Lewman, student of Oglethorpe university and debutante daughter of Mrs. L. D. Lewman, of 1859 Peachtree road, who was injured in an automobile accident on Peachtree road Tuesday afternoon, was reported to be much better late Wednesday at Davis-Fischer hospital.

Miss Lewman was riding to town in a light roadster with two other students, Ed Miles and Arthur Gottesman, and when they attempted to pass another car near the Seaboard Air Line bridge the roadster was struck by a northbound street car and hurled across the road against a telephone pole, it was reported. Miss Lewman was thrown out and sustained severe bruises and probable internal injuries.

Soldiers' Home Site To Be Selected Soon: Atlanta Is Favored

Belief that the proposed $1,000,000 soldiers' home for United States veterads of all wars will be located in or near Atlanta some time in the near future was expressed Wednesday by Sam C. Crane, leader in the move to locate the home in this section. Mr. Crane stated that favorable reports had been received from Georgia senators and congressmen at Washington. Indorsements of the move by Atlanta officials and civic organizations have been put in pamphlet form for distribution among congressmen and Three half pints of whisky—$125.

That was the price paid Wednesday in United States district court by John Echols for alleged possession of a small quantity-of liquor.
Court officials, however, explained that it was not so much the amount of liquor John possessed as it was the fact that he has a record in state courts which prompted the administering of such a large fine. Echols has appeared in state courts several times on liquor charges, it was stated.
Arresting officers were L. D. Portwood, S. D. Priest and C. G. Hughes of the city police.

A Big Wholesale Market

Its Styles Are Authentic A Message to Retail Merchants:

> CORRECT styles and reasonably priced merchandise will be the key to greater sales this Spring. Styles change from season to season. This makes it necessary for the merchant to buy smaller orders more frequently, and keep his shelves clear of "dead" stock. Successful retailing today is based largely on quick "turnover."

> St. Louis is the nearest big market for merchants in the Middle West, South and Southwest. It has become nationally known as a style merchandise center. The expert designers of its wholesale nouses keep in touch with the fashion marts of the world. St. Louis styles are authentic.

> Your freight bills are less from St. Louis than from any other big market because the mileage is less. This saving is a vital factor in figuring profits and offering fair-priced merchandise to your customers.

> St. Louis wholesale houses carry the largest open stocks of any market in the country, ready for immediate delivery. St. Louis' package-car system-a freight service at almost express speed-assures quick delivery and enables you to replace broken lines almost overnight. It places goods on display quickly in your store as salable assets. This speeds "turnover."

AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, January 10.—(AP)—
The cotton market was again fairly active today but prices were two sided and sentiment among professional traders was more bearish. Liverpool cables were decidedly better than due with spot sales there 15,000 bales for the day. After gaining 3 to 5 points in the early trading, the market declined 4 to 5 points on selling by ring traders to force a reaction. The market soon rallies, however, on scattered buying in expectation of comparatively moderate ginnings totals, prices ly moderate ginnings totals, price gaining 10 to 11 points from the loss gaining 10 to 11 points from the loss. In the early afternoon prices turned easier again and made new lows 12 to 13 points down from the highs on realizing. Prices continued on the decline on a rumor that ginnings for the last period would reach a million bales and the lowest showed losses of 17 to 18 points. The close was steady showing net losses for the day of 5 to 8 points.

Considerable southern selling and realizing was absorbed on moderate setbacks in early trading, the market working up to 13.77 for May and 14.17 for October during midday, or about 9 to 11 points net higher. With little more southern selling reaching here, the afternoon arket eased under realizing or liquidation by recent buyers, who seemed inclined to even up their commitmer i in advance of the ginning figures.

Recent reports from the southwest have been regarded by local traders as pointing to larger ginning returns than talked of previously, and brokers attributed part of the afternoon selling to liquidation of long accounts in view of uncertainty as to the showing of the census report next Monday, or of a private report expected tomorrow. Prices reached the lowest levels of the day in late trading, May selling off to 13.60 and October to 14.00 or about 6 to 10 points net lower. The close was within a point or two of these figures.

Nothing was absorbed on moderate easier again and made new lows 12 to 3 points down from the highs on realizing. Prices continued on the decline on a rumor that ginnings for the 18 points.

First trades here showed gains of 2 to 3 points. Prices gained a little additional right after the opening but soon eased off to 13.43 for March, 13.62 for May and 13.79 for July.

The market later rallied to 13.54 for March, 13.72 for May and 13.89 for July, but in the afternoon a fresh reaction set in which carried prices was a shade up from the lows. Exports for the day were 29,939 bales, was a shade up from the lows. Exports for the day were 29,939 bales.

ment by the department of agriculture today that apparently the problen: f making cotton goods for bale coverings and insuring it against deportunity to widen the market for cotton lies in the substitution of cot-ton for jute as a covering for cotton bales and for other articles," says the statement.

"This country imports annually, chiefly from India, more than 75.000 tons of jute and more then 900,000,000 yards of jute cloth. It would make a big dent in the cotton surplus to replace say half of these imports with American cotton. Moreover, some of the manufacturing problems incident to fabricating cotton coverings for cotton bales and processing them against decay have apparently been solved, and with cotton and jute at their present relative prices the cotton wrapper is cheaper.

demand for cotton to replace jute may be developed.

"Similar considerations apply to other proposed substitutions of cotton for wrapping materials. The substitution, in many cases, is £ asible and clearly desirable. It would give rise, however, to an acute competitive situation, and this is a feature of the matter that should be recognized. Opportunities for using cotton bags for salt, rice, beans, meal, corn and cottonseed, feed, cement, sugar, coffee and any other commodities are being studied. Many manufacturers desiring to help the cotton farmers are urging their customers to specify cotton bags when placing orders. Advertising to acquaint housewives with the possible uses of cotton wrappers, and to suggest means of reclaiming and reusing them is industry is proposed."

FENNER & BEANE.

The stock market today presented a different front from what it has during the last few days. Railroads and oils by no means dominated the trading but almost the entire market participated in a broader and greater activity with prices showing a decided up trend. An outstanding industrial was Timken Roller Bearing company, which on a heavy turnover advanced into record ground. This company has extended its plants to provide for the manufacture of roller bearings for railroad cars and those closely affiliated with the company are enthusiastic regarding the earnings outlook held forth by the company's entrance into this field.

While the recovery in many instances was due to short covering and the advance slackened on some occasions, there can be no denying the fact that the entire tone has been greatly improved. The indications are for the continuation of the improvement during tomorrow's trading.

CANADA NEWSPRINT FREIGHT RATES

Washington, January 19.—(P)— Despite objections of a part of its membership, the interstate commerce

Despite objections of a part of its membership, the interstate commerce commission today took jurisdiction over railroad rates on news print paper moving to the United States from Ontario, Canada, and decided that the rate from Estonola. Ontario, to various points in this country should be fixed at four cents per hundred pounds above rates applying from Salt Ste. Marie, Mich.

The new schedules will affect shipments to Wisconsin. Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa and Omaha, Neb.

Chairman Esch and Commissioners Aitchison, Hall and Woodlock dissented from the majority opinion, holding that the commission was stretching its power unduly and endeavoring to fix railroad rates in a foreign nation. The majority, however, declared the ruling, while fixing the rates from Canada to the United States, did so only by requiring alterations in the portion of the railroad charge made for transportation wholly within the United States. ing high-price level continues, with the big outside public refusing to come into the market, just so long will the stock market continue to be a puzzle.

The technical position of the market, particularly as regards industrials, had been strengthened by the recent liquidation in that group, so that it was quick to respond to the appearance of large buying orders. Shorts covered freely, especially in the high-priced industrials. It was apparent, however, that several stocks were being distributed under the cover of strength in other sections of the list. For instance, when the oils became strong and active towards the close, the steels, motors, equipments and

Prices were generally steady in the bond market today, as the flow of January investment money continued. Slight recessions took place during a session of buying which embraced all classes of securities. Chief interest, however, centered in foreign obligations and secondary rail liens. Responding to news that the National Sugar Refining company had purchased the refinery of the Warner company, bonds of the latter organization advanced sharply, the refunding 7s and first 7s closing at new high prices. Otherwise the industrial division was only moderately active, slight advances in Barnsdall 6s, Commercial Cables 4s and Sinclair Oil 6 1-2s offsetting fractional declines in other issues. Among the rails Erie convertible 4s and Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s attracted the most attention. Demand for utilities bonds focused on Interborough Rapid Transit mortgages, particularly the 5s.

PANY BLACK AND WHITE CAR AND

Place at Five Points.

Singing, though heavily guarded by members of the police force and in possible danger of his life, Beniamino Gigli, greeted Atlanta on his arrival last evening for his concert engagement on Thursday at the auditorium. When the great tenor's train pulled in the Terminal station, a formidable phalanx stood to receive him. There were representatives of the city government, the Atlanta Music club, reporters and a horde of photographers with flashlights poised. His managers requested that his friends refrain from mentioning or showing the tenor copies of the Atlanta afternoon papers on which were displayed in hold headlines news of possible threats against the singer's life. As soon as the last hand was shaken and the last picture posed, Gigli and his official escort made their way through Atlanta toward his hotel as the white lights of Peachtree came into view.

"We cannot say, only this, Gigli for a long time has been the dear friend of Mussolini. But the friendah, it is based on the arts-c, painting, sculpture. Gigli has interest for politics, he is the Italian Dinner Party.

In Mr. Gigli's party are his manager, George Ford; his doctor, H. J. Reilly, Vito Carnevali, the accompaniest, and Edrich Sarantin, violinist.

The singer's party and representatives of Atlanta newspapers were enstertained at an Italian dinner party at the Biltmore immediately after the tenor's arrival. Gigli will go from here to New Orleans where the entire house has already been sold out for his appearance. He will appear at the Metropolitan opera house on March 4 in "La Gioconda" and the two successive weeks in "L'Africaine" and "Mignon." Gigli has now in his repertoire 37 operas, "These operas," he said, "are the ones I sing without rehearsal. That is, I must be ready to sing any part at any time with familiarity."

Coming to Erlanger Theater.

One of the greatest casts of principals and the most beauteous chorus yet sent on tour with any of the Scandals, editions is the manner in which the new George White Scandals, coming to the Erlanger theater for three days, commencing Monday, January 24, is described. The tremendous cast, headed by the celebrated comedian, Sammy Howard, brother of Eugene and Willy Howard; Lillian Norwood, from the "Passing Show;" Georgie Carson, the lovely English dancing girl; Helen Claire McAllister. Nelle Golden. Jeanette Creagon and the famous Albertina Rasch girls form only a part of the personnel. Seat sale this engagement now.

While dealing in an unusually frank manner with the delicate things of married life, "Cheaper to Marry" does it in a way that is not the least offensive. Treating such a theme it fensive. Treating such a tneme it necessarily follows that candor and frankness must be used, and it is—very much so in many cections. It is well played and the Forsyth Players

Palace Theater.

Bottom fame, and the feature of the company, the cast numbers among it some famous stars such as Doris Reubottom, Rogers and Rogers, Dandy Brown, Kid Rastus, Harry Smith, Fred Clarleston, Crackshot and Jackson and a host of others.

A large and extremely popular jazz band is a feature of the show that will prove exceedingly popular tomorrow. Constance Talmadge, delightful omedienne, is featured today and to-torrow at the Palace theater in "The prove exceedingly popular tomorrow Duchess of Buffalo," one of her most popular pictures. An excellent cast is featured in this farce-comedy.

Fairfax Theater.

"The Enchanted Hill," a picturization of the Peter B. Kyne story of the same name is playing today and tomorrow at the Fairfax theater. Jack is Holt is starred in this story of the ery west. Many exciting scenes are in the #### Tenth Street Theater.

Sydney Chaplin, brother of the famous Charlie, is seen at the Tenth Street theater today and tomorrow in one of his best-known vehicles, "Char-ley's Aunt." He is seen as a female cy's Aunt." He is seen as a female mpersonator in this picture. An un-unusually good cast supports him.

West End Theater.

Loew's Grand.

Al Lentz and his "Tuneful Come dians" are scoring one of the biggest hits of the year at Loew's Grand theater this week, where they are the headline attraction. Miss Lee Arnold, world's champion "Black Bottom" dancer, is appearing with the band as a special attraction and also is conducting free classes in this dance at noon every day at this theater. Besides a great program of music, Al Lentz provides some of the best comedy seen here lately in this class of act. In his company are several able edy seen here lately in this class of act. In his company are several able comedians and dancers. All of the other acts are of exceptional merit, particularly the wonderful illusions of Roland Travers and company and the clever comedy and dancing of Ralph Rogers and Elsie Donnelly. Athlone, a pretty young woman with a fine voice, sings some attractive mu-sical numbers, while the Three and One-Half Arleys pro nt a spectacular balancing act.
